MADAME RENÉ AUGUSTE CHOUTEAU

PIERRE de LACLEDE LIGUEST

PIERRE de LACLEDE LIGUEST, born near Pau, France, 1724

Son of a noble family in France, he came to Louisiana in 1755 and entered commercial life in New Orleans. In 1762 the firm of Maxent, Laclede & Company were granted a license by d'Abbadie, Director General and Commandant of Louisiana, for the exclusive trade with the Indians of the Missouri and all nations residing west of the Mississippi River for a period of eight years.

Laclede, accompanied by Auguste Chouteau, a boy of fourteen years, left New Orleans Aug. 3, 1763, and arrived at Fort Chartres the following November, where he stored his goods. Then he and Chouteau proceeded up the river. In December they landed at the spot that he chose for his trading post, the present site of St. Louis. He blazed the trees and said to Chouteau, "You will come here as soon as navigation opens and cause this place to be cleared in order to form our settlement after the plan that I shall give you." On February 15, 1764, Laclede sent Chouteau, in charge of thirty men to lay out the town, which is the present site of St. Louis. For the next few years, Laclede was engaged in building up the new settlement. The winter of 1777-8, he passed in New Orleans and died when enroute to St. Louis, June 20, 1778. His remains were buried at the mouth of the Arkansas, on the banks of the river.

AUGUSTE CHOUTEAU,

MARIE THÉRÈSE CÉRRÉ

Auguste Chouteau, son of René Auguste Chouteau and Marie Thérèse Bourgeois, born in New Orleans September 7, 1749; died St. Louis February 25, 1829. When a boy of 14, he accompanied Pierre de Laclede Liguest, when he left New Orleans Aug. 3, 1763, and came by river to the present site of St. Louis. He was sent in charge of 30 men from Fort Chartres to St. Louis and reached there Feb. 15, 1764, at the spot where Laclede had marked the trees. He laid out the town and employed Indian women and children to dig out the cellar of the first house. They carried the earth away in their blankets. Chouteau was left in full charge and was appointed Presiding Judge of the Territorial Court of Oyer and Terminer—1804.

Appointed Colonel of the St. Louis 1st Militia Regiment —1808.

Chosen first President of the Board of Trustees for the Town of St. Louis—1809.

married February 20, 1813,

Susan Hempstead, born February 3, 1797, Connecticut, died June 2, 1854.

Mr Gratiot and his brother bought mineral lands in Northern Illinois and engaged in mining and smelting of lead ores. In 1816 they moved their families to "Gratiot's Grove," land purchased from the Indians, and erected new cabins and furnaces. They remained there during the Winnebago outbreak and the Black Hawk war, Mr. Gratiot taking an active part in both wars. He was sent to negotiate the release of two young girls who were taken by the Sauk and Fox Indians. Mr. Charles de St. Vrain, their agent, had been murdered by the Indians at this time, and the undertaking was an exceedingly hazardous one. He was taken prisoner by the Indians and upon the intercession of two principal Winnebago Chiefs, Mr. Gratiot and the two girls were released upon the payment of a large ransom.

Charles Billon was born in Locle, Canton Newfchattel, Switzerland, January 10, 1766. His ancestors were French Huguenots who had fled from France after the revocation of the Edict of Nantes. Moved from Paris to Philadelphia in 1795, and married May 12, 1797, Jeanne Stollenwerch, who was born at Cape Francoise, San Domingo. In 1818 Mr. Billon with his family moved to St. Louis and died September 8, 1822, leaving children: Frederick, born April 30, 1801, married March 20, 1820, Eulalie Generelly, and had children George, Clara, Ada and Louis.

Paul Benjamin Gratiot was in the employ of the American Fur Company when 18 years of age, and was engaged in visiting the various trading posts of the company. In 1829 moved with his family to Mineral Point, where they were engaged in mining and smelting and also had a store stocked with the necessities of frontier life. At the outbreak of the Black Hawk war, Mr. Gratiot was in St. Louis on business and his family were at Mineral Point, exposed to the terrors of an Indian war. His brother-in-law, Charles Billon, then living in Galena, drove in a sleigh 40 miles to Mineral Point, arriving at midnight. After rescuing the family and silver, in thirty minutes started back to Galena. They were chased by a pack of wolves and could see the reflection in every direction of burning cabins, set aflame by the Indians. A government boat took the women and children down the river to a place of safety. He later moved to the old Gratiot homestead near St. Louis, and died in the fall of 1855.

Née AGLÁE PAUL

GENEALOGY OF THE PAUL, CHOUTEAU AND COURSAULT FAMILIES

THE PAUL FAMILY

The present Island of Hayti, second in size of the West Indies, originally belonged to France under the name of San Domingo. It was the most productive and flourishing of the French Colonies and its capital city, "Cape Francaise," was known as the Paris of America. The white residents were European French who possessed large plantations of sugar and coffee and owned many hundreds of slaves. Among these wealthy men was Eustache Paul who had been appointed by the French government Lieutenant Governor of the island. Mr. Paul was a great traveler and a man of fine education; he purchased large plantations, made frequent trips to Europe and educated his four children in Paris. The French Revolution extended itself to the colony; 1793 the negroes arose in revolt, massacred their owners, gained possession of the island and still govern it with the exception of a small portion which was redeemed by France. Mr. Paul's family was in France when this occurred; with friends he made his escape to the seashore, embarked on a small schooner for Philadelphia, but overcome with worry and fatigue, he died at sea and was buried in the ocean off the coast of North Carolina, 1793. Madame Veuve Paul remained in Paris, her daughters were educated at the Ursulines and her boys at the "École Militaire Polytechnique."

Mr. Fleury Generelly, an officer of Napoleon's army, residing in Paris, met Miss Émilie Sophie Paul and married her in Paris August, 1801.

Having plenty of money and tiring of military life, he proposed to his mother-in-law to bring her family to the United States, as San Domingo was now in too dilapidated a condition as a residence. They sailed for Philadelphia in 1802. Madame Paul and her daughter, Aglaé, came with the Generelly family, but her two sons remained at school and came to the United States in 1807-1808. They made their way to the west and settled in St. Louis, where they married. Mr. Generelly went into business in Philadelphia and in 1814 moved to New Orleans where his descendents now reside. Old Mrs. Paul died May 28, 1809, and is buried in the graveyard surrounding Holy Trinity Church in Philadelphia.

THE HUNT FAMILY

Colonel Sir William Hunt was Chief of Artillery in the Royal Army, York, England. He was knighted by Prince Rupert for gallant conduct in the defense of the City of York at the age of 33. After the defeat of the Royalists at Marston Moor, he escaped from Cromwell, under the assumed name of a deceased cousin, Ephriam Hunt—came to America, and settled in Weymouth, Mass., where he married Anna, only daughter of Thomas and Welthea Richards. She became the mother of three sons, who inherited large estates from their grandfather, Richards.

The second son of Colonel Hunt and Anna Richards Hunt, was Thomas Hunt, born in 1648, married Judith Torray. He established iron works in Linn Street, Boston, where he owned a wharf, warehouses, forges and in the neighborhood, a dwelling house. They left two sons, John, born 1676, and Samuel, 1681.

John Hunt, merchant, married Rebecca Shrimpton; their son, John Hunt, born 1715.

Samuel Hunt, brother of John, married Mary Langdon in 1712. Their only son was John Hunt, born 1716; married Ruth Fessenden; had four sons and four daughters. John, Samuel, William, who was a lawyer, Watertown, Mass., married Jane Bethune, 1787. Their children who have descendents are Benjamin Fanueil Hunt, Maria Bethune Hunt, Jane Lee Hunt, who married John A. Weisser, M. D., and Eugenia Bethune, married to A. W. Stein, M. D. The youngest son of John Hunt and Ruth Fessenden was Colonel Thomas Hunt, U. S. A., born 1754. Married Eunice Wellington of Waltham. Following children: George, born 1785; Henry Jackson, 1788-1827 (first Mayor of Detroit); Ruth, 1790; George 1791; Thomas, 1793-1838; Abby W., 1797, married 1812, Capt. Josiah Snelling; John Elliott, 1798-1877; Samuel W., 1799 (died Lieutenant 3rd Infantry at Jefferson Barracks, Mo., September 11, 1829), married 1818, Julia Herrick of Plattsburg, N. Y. Their children were: Henry J. Hunt, U. S. A.; Lewis C. Hunt, U. S. A.; Julia Hunt, Charles C. P. Hunt, 1802-1892; Mary L. Hunt, 1803, married Louis Wendell of Detroit; Eliza M. Hunt, 1804, married James G. Soulard of St. Louis.

Colonel Sir William Hunt's second wife was Ebbett Brinsmead, who bore him three other sons.

He was the last commandant of Fort Bellefontaine, 1808. He and Mrs. Hunt died and were buried at Fort Bellefontaine. Their bodies have since been removed to Jefferson Barracks.

Col. Johnathan Clark later became a General while fighting in the Revolution under Gen. George Washington. He fought with the 8th Virginia regiment, the brigade of Gen. Charles Scott. Also in the battle of Brandywine and Germantown and Monmouth in 1778; Paulas Hook in 1779; made a Lieut.-Col. for bravery. Taken prisoner and held in Charleston until after the surrender of Cornwallis.

GENERAL GEORGE ROGERS CLARK, born November 9, 1752. Was born in Albemarle County, Va., near Charlottesville, two miles from Monticello, the home of Thomas Jefferson. Died February 13, 1818.

In his boyhood he studied with James Madison, afterwards President of the United States. George Washington was also a young surveyor in 1770.

George Rogers Clark, when 19 years old, went west on an exploring and surveying expedition. June 9, 1772, made a tour through the upper Ohio valley. In 1775 went into Kentucky and interviewed Patrick Henry and was instrumental in laying the foundations of the great Commonwealth of Kentucky. On July 5, 1778, he surprised the English and captured Kaskaskia with 200 men, against a large force of English and Indians. He also took St. Philips. With the assistance of Father Gibault, Clark and his men took Vincennes without firing a shot. The town surrendered and took the oath of allegiance to the United States, July 16, 1778. Fort Sackville capitulated February 25, 1779. The English were under Lieut.-Col. Hamilton, who was sent a prisoner with his officers and men to Thomas Jefferson, then Governor of Virginia. In 1782 he expelled the Indians from Kentucky. On October 19, 1781, Cornwallis surrendered at Yorktown, Va. Definite peace with the British was concluded at Paris, September 3, 1783, and ratified by Congress January 14, 1784. It was when the terms of this treaty were considered and the northern and western boundaries of the United States debated, that the general public began more fully to realize the important services Gen. George Rogers Clark had rendered the country. But for his services and the little band of soldiers of the Illinois regiments, the boundary of the United States on the northwest might have been the Allegheny and the Ohio Rivers. Out of the country that he acquired has sprung the States of Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Michigan, Wisconsin and part of Minnesota.

In 1783, an Act was passed by Virginia, for locating and surveying 150,000 acres of land on the northwest side of the Ohio River. It was granted by a resolution of Assembly to Col. George Rogers Clark and the officers and soldiers who assisted in the reduction of the British posts in Illinois. One thousand acres were set apart for a town on August 4, 1784, to be called "Clarksville." It was situated on the lower part of the Ohio Falls and here Col. Clark built his home, where he resided for some years. His death from a stroke of paralysis occurred February 13, 1818, at the house of his sister, Mrs. Lucy Croghan, at Locust Grove, near Louisville, Ky. An Act of the Virginia Legislature ordered a sword for Col. George Rogers Clark in recognition of his services in the Revolutionary War. He spent his entire fortune in the service of his country and was never reimbursed by the government. Buried at Cave Hill Cemetery, Louisville, Ky., where monument now stands to the Clark family. Other monuments at Indianapolis and Vincennes, Indiana, Fort Massac, Illinois, Harrodsburg, Kentucky, Quincy, Illinois, and Charlottesville, Virginia.

Ann Clark, born July 14, 1755, Albemarle County, Va., married 1773, Owen Gwathmey. He was, for a short time, a soldier in the Revolutionary War.

John Clark, born September 15, 1757, Albemarle County, Va. Was appointed a Lieutenant in the 4th Virginia regiment in August, 1777. Fought in the Revolution at Battle of Brandywine and Germantown, where he was taken prisoner, sent to Philadelphia and then Long Island, and finally confined in a prison ship until 1782. Died of consumption caused by his treatment when a prisoner of the English. Died in Virginia in 1784.

Richard Clark, born July 6, 1760, Caroline County, Va. Joined his brother, George Rogers Clark, at Kaskaskia in March, 1779; made a Lieutenant in June, 1779; went to relief of Cahokia in 1780; stationed at Fort Jefferson and Falls of Ohio in 1781 in the campaign against the Indians. Lost his life in March, 1784, on journey on horseback from Falls of Ohio to Vincennes.

Capt. Edmund Clark, born September 25, 1762, in Virginia. Made Lieutenant in 8th Virginia regiment of the Continental Army. Taken prisoner and exchanged in 1782. Moved to Jefferson County, Kentucky. Died March 11, 1817.

Lucy Clark, born September 15, 1765, Caroline County, Va., died April, 1838, married 1784,

William Croghan, who fought in the Revolution with Washington. Made Major in 1778 and assigned to the 4th Virginia regiment. Fought in the Battle of Monmouth; made prisoner at Charleston; paroled in 1781; returned to Virginia with Col. Johnathan Clark and lived at Locust Grove, Louisville.

GENERAL WILLIAM CLARK, born August 1, 1770, Caroline County. Va. Died September 1, 1838. Went to Falls of Ohio with the family in 1784. When 19 marched against Indians northwest of the Ohio River with Col. John Hardin. 1790, sent on mission to Creek and Cherokee Indians. 1791, sent with Gen. Scott and Wilkenson against Indians on Wabash. Gen. Washington commissioned him First Lieutenant in the Fourth sub-legion under Gen. Wayne in March, 1793. Entered active service against Indians on the Wabash to Vincennes. Also at Fort Washington, where Cincinnati now stands, and Fort Greenville, where part of his men were killed by Indians. 1795, sent on military mission to New Madrid. Was appointed Brigadier General by Thomas Jefferson in 1807 and reappointed as such by James Madison in 1811. Was made Governor of the Missouri Territory by President Madison in 1813, and recommissioned twice by being again appointed Governor by James Monroe in 1820, who also made him Superintendent of Indian affairs in 1822.

The Expedition of Lewis and Clark across the continent in 1804-5-6 marked the beginning of the progress of exploration and colonization which thrust our national boundaries to the Pacific. This primary exploration through more than 4000 miles of savage wilderness planted the flag of the United States for the first time on the shores of the Pacific Ocean. It completed the extension of the United States across the vast western region of the American continent and gave us our outlook toward the Orient.

Soldier, explorer, statesman and patriot, his life is written in the history of his country.

The monument to the memory of William Clark was erected in Bellefontaine Cemetery, St. Louis, by his son, Jefferson Kearney Clark, October 2, 1904.
